Food Not Bombs... more than a meal, we are a movement with a message.

You are invited to attend this inspiring presentation by Food Not Bombs co-founder Keith McHenry

Most people would elect to end hunger and poverty but many of the people running for office have another agenda -- like cutting social services while transferring our tax dollars to wealthy military contractors and their corporate friends. While elected officials cut social services like unemployment insurance, food stamps, education, health care and other basic necessities they pass laws against the poor and evict the occupations that are seeking to defend the 99%.

Food Not Bombs is responding to the economic, ecological and political crisis by recovering, preparing and sharing vegan meals and groceries with the hungry in nearly 1,000 communities. This presentation is sure to inspire you and your friends to take action and join the movement to build a sustainable future. This event may change your life. Copies of Keith's new book "Hungry for Peace" will be available at the presentation.
